- b) In the event that Tyro's counterparties do not fulfil their settlement obligations for the valid Card transactions, Tyro will delay settlement to the Merchant until the Counterparties fulfil their obligations.
- c) The Merchant acknowledges that authorisation of a transaction is not a representation by Tyro that the transaction is valid and acceptable or that the transaction is being conducted by a true Cardholder. The transaction may be subject to dispute or a Chargeback.

13. Card Transactions which are Not Valid

A Card Transaction shall not be valid if:

 - (iv) insufficient funds are available in the bank account the Merchant maintains under this Agreement to cover the refund amount.
- i) the Merchant failed to comply with all messages displayed on the Terminal in relation to the transaction;

Tyro will not be bound by any terms or conditions set forth on the Merchant's purchase orders.
- b) Tyro warrants to the Merchant that:
 - (i) in case of rental, the Terminals and other related equipment are of merchantable quality and are fit for the purpose for which they are being supplied;

Risk of loss will pass to the Merchant upon delivery by Tyro to the address requested by the Merchant on the Application. The Merchant must notify Tyro, by calling or emailing Tyro within forty-eight (48) hours after delivery, of any claimed shortages or rejections. Failure to give such notice of a claim will be deemed an acceptance in full of any such delivery. Title to the product shall only pass to the Merchant when full payment of the purchase price has been received by Tyro. Payment will be made by direct debit on the Merchant's account.

- d) The Merchant installs the Terminal following the instructions of the Tyro terminal install and user guide. He determines, under his whole responsibility, the place of installation of the Terminal and prepares it according to the specifications resumed in the install guide. For the connection of the Terminal, the Merchant has to have, under his own responsibility, a broadband access (Ethernet, Wi-Fi or GPRS) and a power socket 220V equipped against the electric disturbances. - c) While the Terminal is owned by Tyro and used to process Card Transactions under this Agreement, Tyro will maintain the Terminal at its cost in circumstances of normal use or as otherwise agreed.
- d) Terminals owned by the Merchant found to be defective will be repaired or replaced by a terminal of similar capability at Tyro's sole discretion. During the warranty period from the date of shipment to the merchant the terminal shall be repaired or replaced without cost to the Merchant including the shipment costs from and back to Tyro. Beyond the warranty period, the Terminal repair and shipment costs (as reasonably determined by Tyro) will constitute a debt due by the Merchant to Tyro and the Merchant authorises Tyro to deduct such amount from the Merchant Account without notice.
- e) From time to time Tyro may supply the Merchant with a new, upgraded or repaired Terminal. The Merchant must return the old or the loaner Terminal within 14 days of receiving the new, upgraded or repaired Terminal.
